Project Background

The Commonwealth Secretariat has embarked on an ambitious project aimed at helping member countries to implement the SDGs, starting with a pilot sample of fourteen (14)<sup>1</sup> African small and vulnerable states. The project's first consultative workshop was held in October 2017 and resulted in the identification of common SDG data challenges -- including: weak ministerial coordination; slow execution of national development plans; outdated legal frameworks and weak statistical systems across countries.

To address countries' implementation challenges, the Commonwealth Secretariat has developed an SDG Implementation Toolkit (SIT), which will enhance their SDG execution, monitoring, and evaluation. Countries are working with other partners to mainstream and prioritise SDGs in their planning process, but their remains a gap in the implementation and execution of the national/SDGs plans, and this is the Commonwealth's main focus.

To introduce this toolkit to members, the Secretariat convened the workshop, "Toolkit for Effective SDG Implementation" in Johannesburg, South Africa 14-16 May, 2018. The workshop aimed to: (1) share the draft SDG Toolkit with members, (2) get feedback on the concept and usefulness of the toolkit; and (3) gauge demand.

Workshop Participation and Overview

The workshop was attended by 15 participants, spanning 9 countries<sup>2</sup> and 3 intergovernmental development partners<sup>3</sup>. The country representatives included Directors, Development Planners, Economists, and a Permanent Secretary, all of which were charged in some form for the planning and implementation of the SDGs.

The three-day workshop provided an overview of the Commonwealth's SIT, as well as the tools and frameworks offered by UN ECA and the AU Commission. Countries were given the opportunity to provide feedback on these tools and to share their experiences with mainstreaming the SDGs into their national plans, implementing the SDGs, and monitoring progress. Much attention was also given to how ministries and institutions interface with each other and work together on implementing cross-cutting goals. The workshop concluded with discussions about the next steps for working with the Commonwealth Secretariat and other partners to utilise the various SDG toolkits. (See the workshop's annotated Agenda in Annex 1).

Main Workshop Presentations

The workshop featured presentations from the Commonwealth Secretariat, the United Nations Economic Commission for Africa (UNECA), and the African Union Commission. These three main presentations are summarised below.

Commonwealth SDG Implementation Toolkit

The workshop began with an overview of the Commonwealth SDG Implementation Toolkit (SIT), which seeks to fill the gap on implementation of the SDGs by making the link between performance management and implementation. Noting that with regards to the effectiveness of implementation, “80% depends on the quality of performance management and 20% on the quality of people working within the system”<sup>4</sup>, the toolkit offers a system by which performance management is used to successfully motivate SDG implementation. Using a multi-dimensional approach to implementation, the toolkit encompasses a (a) performance information system, (b) performance evaluation system, (c) performance incentive system, and (d) performance agreement.

Travis Mitchell, Head of Economic Policy and Small States at the Commonwealth Secretariat presented the concept behind the toolkit, and snapshots on how the tool would work and be utilised by ministries.

Outlining the benefits of SIT, Mr Mitchell explained that the toolkit can help countries manage and integrate their development agendas through the systems approach and prioritisation of goals and targets. The value-add of the SIT, he explained, is that it enhances accountability and motivation to implement through performance contracts. Finally, the online system enhances monitoring and evaluation by allowing for easy and real-time access to performance information.

Implementation is key. Most management experts agree that good ideas and good intentions do not self-implement. - Professor Prajapati Trivedi, Director of Economics, Youth, and Social Development Directorate, Commonwealth Secretariat

UNECA Toolkit

Professor Bartholomew Armah, Chief of Development Planning Macroeconomic Policy Division at UN Economic Commission for Africa (UNECA) presented UNECA’s Integrated Planning and Reporting tool. He noted that the tool seeks to help countries with (a) an integrated development plan design, (b) implementation policy-gap analysis, and (c) integrated results tracking. Given the multiple development agendas countries have agreed to, there is a clear need to ensure both horizontal<sup>5</sup> and vertical<sup>6</sup> coherence in national development frameworks. UNECA’s tool assists with mapping the priorities from a number of different development agendas.

With respect to policy implementation, the tool seeks to determine whether a country’s <sup>5</sup> Do the multiple agendas speak to each other?

policies and strategies are consistent with the targets and goals set out in the national development plans. Finally, Professor Armah informed that the tool helps to track performance by producing reports which conform to the AU Commission's regional monitoring and reporting framework and consolidates national results frameworks in one database, thus facilitating integrated performance tracking of both Agenda 2030 and Agenda 2063, as well as national development plans.

AU Commission M&E Framework

Mr Shumba Tichawona, Senior Policy Officer in the Strategic Planning, Monitoring and Evaluation Division of the African Union Commission and Mr Martin Bwalya, Head of the Comprehensive Africa Agriculture Development Programme at NEPAD both gave presentations on the Monitoring and Evaluation Framework for the African Union's Agenda 2063. They laid out the process from the political commitment to Agenda 2063 made in 2013, to the ten-year implementation plan which agreed measurable goals and targets, to the development of core indicators, and an upcoming implementation support roadmap. The monitoring and evaluation framework architecture consists of national, regional, and continental reporting levels which all feedback to the national action plans.

While the AU's M&E framework does not prescribe a particular tool to use or format to follow, it reviews and assesses countries' own M&E platforms and capacity for their ability to report on Agenda 2063.

Workshop Outcomes

While the workshop's main outcomes are listed below, detailed participant feedback on the next steps for the toolkit can be found in Annex 2 and the analysis of the workshop evaluations in Annex 3.

Expressions of Interest in the Toolkit

In their evaluation forms, all 9 countries expressed an interest in working more closely with the Commonwealth Secretariat with a view to using the SDG Implementation Toolkit. Many participants also expressed an interest in the tools presented at the workshop either being merged into one tool, or being able to interface with each other and being compatible with each other.

Call for further testing and training

Member states highlighted the need for training on the use of the Commonwealth SIT, and a clear programme for roll out, engagement, and operationalisation at the country level. They suggested that the Commonwealth Secretariat provide technical assistance on the toolkit as required and assist in resource mobilisation for programmes related to implementation of SDGs and Agenda 2063.

Mobilisation of Political Engagement

Participants noted that for the toolkits to be most effective, there needs to be political buy-in at the highest levels on their use. They agreed to support and encourage political engagement and commitment.

Development Partner Collaboration

Participants called for the development partners to work together to (1) allow the harmonisation of the different toolkits and to (2) support political buy-in at a higher level.

Participants engaged in discussions at the workshop

Next Steps

At the end of the workshop the member states and the development partners agreed to the following next steps:

- Countries and partners would work through AU Commission to formalise expressions of interest in the use of the toolkits presented
- The Commonwealth Secretariat and UNECA would work together to fine tune the toolkit and ensure a reasonable interface between the tools.

Furthermore, the Commonwealth Secretariat noted that they would undertake a similar mission to Caribbean and Pacific regions to get feedback on the use of the SIT toolkit.

Is there Interest in using the SIT in your country?

Annex 2: Small Group Responses in Session 8: Brainstorming on the Way Forward

In Session 8, participants were split into 3 small groups to discuss 3 questions on the way forward to the toolkits. The responses have been combined by question and synthesised in the table below.

Question 1: What are the next steps from the countries' perspectives regarding the tools presented by the Commonwealth and development partners on SDG implementation?
Group	Responses
Group 1	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Development Partners should work together so that they can combine their Toolkits so that the member states can be able to use just one tool, which could be easier for countries to use.</li> <li>• Capacity building for member states on how to use the Toolkits.</li> <li>• Conduct an internal assessment on the data availability relevant to the Toolkit.</li> <li>• Follow up from last year's Workshop on data challenges.</li> </ul>
Group 2	For all tools, what is needed is a clear program for roll out, engagement and operationalisation at country level. Performance tool. The inputs made in this workshop should contribute towards the development of the Commonwealth tool, with the aim of sending this to all countries following this for validation and testing. The current version of the tool should be sent to all countries for familiarisation, run simulations and will help countries to identify gaps, or areas of improvement to better cater for needs. This would then be communicated to Commonwealth. The workshop report and next steps, from the perspective of the Commonwealth, should be circulated to all countries. UNECA tool is for alignment with agendas. Need UNECA to outline how countries would start using this tool - training needs, roll out program to all countries. Countries need to understand how to use this tool on a practical level through further TA. Countries need to prepare themselves to use, engage and work with these tools and sync in line with other planning activities.
Group 3	The tools that have been presented are very critical and useful towards the implementation process of SDGs and A2063. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>SDG Implementation Toolkit (SIT) - Has comparative advantage in implementation and accountability (Not Finalized)</li> <li>UNECA Planning and Reporting Toolkit - Mainstreaming of SDGs and A2063 (tried and tested - Ethiopia, Ghana, Uganda, Cameroon, Congo, etc.)</li> </ol> Next Steps <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Inform the Governments about the tools that have been developed</li> <li>• There is need for the SIT toolkit to be finalized and tested before countries can consider using it</li> <li>• There is need for a clear mandate from highest levels (buy-in at the highest level - CHOGM)</li> </ul>
Question 2: What are the challenges that could arise in the execution of the steps above?
Group 1	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The toolkits are not one size fits all, member states have different situations.</li> </ul>

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The toolkits should be prioritised in the mandate of each Ministry so that it is considered as a mandate of that Ministry.</li> <li>• Lack of data availability to feed the toolkit.</li> <li>• Governments might not be willing to adopt the toolkits.</li> </ul>
Group 2	Are countries ready to engage with these tools? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• How easily can work be organised and staff mobilised to understand and incorporate these tools with current activities.</li> <li>• What are additional capacity needed? Skills and financial.</li> <li>• Do the countries have all the data needed to populate the tools?</li> </ul> Will there be ownership and buy-in nationally? How can outputs of tools be synced with already existing frameworks, e.g. most countries already have performance management frameworks and measurements.
Group 3	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Governments might be unwilling to adopt the tools</li> <li>• Inadequate capacity and manpower</li> <li>• Systems are vulnerable to sustainability challenges</li> <li>• Lack of proper institutional arrangements</li> <li>• The tool is only a means towards implementation but may require policy for enforcement</li> </ul>
Question 3: How can the Commonwealth and development partners work with countries to overcome these challenges?
Group 1	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Assist also with the Technical aspects on how data can be consolidated since in some cases the data is collected by different departments.</li> <li>• Continuous support from DPs in terms of evaluating if countries are using the toolkit correctly.</li> </ul>
Group 2	Development partners (including Commonwealth) should work with UN who is leading the SDG initiative. Partners should work closely (e.g. through a working group) with each other to address harmonisation issues with different tools. Partners should offer as much assistance as possible to countries to help address challenges regarding: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• buy in (on a high level);</li> <li>• capacity building (technical assistance, aid);</li> <li>• data collection support;</li> <li>• operationalisation of tools (adapt tools to needs of countries, follow up TA or aftercare).</li> </ul>
Group 3	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Sensitization of stakeholders in governments for buy-in</li> <li>• Provision of technical assistance where required</li> <li>• Assist in resource mobilization for programmes related to implementation of SDGs and A2063</li> </ul>

4. It helped me appreciate the different ways we can make our work easier -- through what other countries are doing and even through the tools presented. I think again that interactions at the early stages of implementation are useful in opening you up for more options.
5. Yes. Given that Seychelles is currently working on its National Development plan which the global commitments, such as Agenda 2063 come at an opportune moment, as it will help us address our own existing challenges as a country.
6. The workshop indeed met my expectations. I have now more insight on the SDGs issues and challenges being encountered by some countries in the process of implementation.
7. This workshop largely met my expectations -- informative, relevant and providing useful country experiences. There could have been more hands-on sessions and activities.

6a. Time Allocation for Different Segments

6b. Relevance and Quality of Proceedings

7. The Commonwealth Secretariat would like to hold a similar workshop in other regions. Please suggest any improvements that can be made to the workshop or provide other comments, if any.

1. Earlier starts time to allow more time for discussions and/or the coverage of more topics. (x2)
2. Maybe the perspectives of the UN should have been underscored during the workshop

3. Contents of papers presented need to be properly screened. Toolkits of ComSec and UNECA need to be harmonised to have a single tool.
  4. More practical work sessions/activities and more tangible take home outputs
  5. Need for more time to discuss the tools and its features. (x2)
  6. Tackle evaluation aspect for successful implementation as it is a continuous process
  7. Invite countries to send their country specific needs prior, so the workshops are as close as possible to addressing existing needs.
  8. It would be good to use microphones as it promotes clarity of communication
  9. The organisation, content and facilitation of the workshop is sufficient to meet its purpose.
  10. The toolkit should be presented in advance for participants to run simulation exercises with their country info
