

Jesse Griffiths

Jesse Griffiths is a specialist in development finance and the international development finance architecture. He has done work for a range of national governments, international organisations, non-governmental organisations and think-tanks, and has published widely on these topics. Jesse heads ODI's work on development finance. Previously,

Jesse was Director of the European Network on Debt and Development (Eurodad), Coordinator of the Bretton Woods Project, and worked for the United Kingdom's Department for International Development. He headed ActionAid UK's aid and development finance policy group, and worked for various other non-governmental organisations and elsewhere on development finance issues.