Tel: (61) 3 204 7128; Fax: (61) 3 204 7560; Telex: AA 34096

Co-ordinator

Mr K J S McKeown

History

The CCPA first met in London in 1971, after deciding to form an association at a gathering in Hong Kong prior to the 1969 Universal Postal Union (UPU) Congress. Since 1971, the CCPA has met in formal conference on eight occasions in various Commonwealth countries. It has also met prior to each of the four UPU Congresses held during that time.

Organisation

In principle, the CCPA meets every two years and just prior to each UPU Congress. The latter are normally scheduled at five-yearly intervals. The CCPA has no permanent secretariat and relies on its Co-ordinator to perform the necessary liaison activities between conferences. The Co-ordinator is appointed by and from CCPA member administrations.

Aims

To enable Commonwealth countries to keep under review those activities of the UPU which have a bearing on their interests; and to permit administrations with differing experiences but a common Commonwealth approach to exchange ideas and opinions about postal services in an atmosphere of friendly understanding.

Activities

Apart from the regular Conferences and pre-UPU Congress gatherings, CCPA member administrations tend to operate on an informal basis. Surveys of membership opinion are conducted on important matters of common interest.

Publication

An occasional newsletter is produced.

The Commonwealth Trust links the activities and members of the Royal Commonwealth Society and The Victoria League for Commonwealth Friendship (see separate entries). It is governed by a Board of Governors and brings together over 100 Trusts, Leagues and Branches worldwide with a total membership of approximately 20,000. It is a pan-Commonwealth non-governmental organisation, independent of any national economy or government.

Aims

To promote greater understanding of the Commonwealth through a wide range of activities and to help finance the activities of the founding society branches/leagues. It provides a meeting place in which people from all parts of the Commonwealth may come together to share friendship, foster mutual causes and enjoy its society. It provides a centre in which Commonwealth people may draw upon the rich resources of knowledge and understanding provided by the speeches of Commonwealth leaders, scholars and experts, by the treasure house of a famous library, and by the sharing of more personal experience.

Activities

Arranging an extensive programme of lectures, activities – including weekend visits to its British branches, tours, social diary of events, hospitality which brings people together and encourages friendship and understanding, particularly amongst the young. Carrying out charity fundraising events for other Commonwealth charities and to support a 60-bed student hostel, Victoria League House. Through the facilities of Commonwealth House, members are offered a location to meet, dine and stay. There are several branches of Young Commonwealth Trust (geared for those under 40 years), usually linked to a university town, which organise their own programmes of events.

COMMONWEALTH VETERINARY ASSOCIATION (CVA)

c/o British Veterinary Association, 7 Mansfield Street, London W1A 0AA, Britain

Tel: (44) 071 636 6541; Fax: (44) 071 436 2970

Patron

Sir Dawda Jawara, President of The Gambia

President

Dr J T Blackburn

Founded

1967, at a meeting chaired by Sir Dawda Jawara, the founding President.

Organisation

The CVA is made up of national veterinary associations or approved bodies of most Commonwealth countries. The Association is divided into six geographical regions: Africa—East, Central and Southern; Africa—West; Asia; Australasia; Canada/Caribbean; and UK/Mediterranean. Each national association or approved body elects a council member as its representative on a regional council. Representatives of the six regional councils elect a representative from among its council members who, together with the president and the secretary/treasurer, form the executive committee responsible for running the affairs of the association.

Aims

To promote within the Commonwealth the interests of the veterinary and allied sciences; to maintain the honour and traditions of the profession; to effect links between member associations; to facilitate the dissemination of professional knowledge and information; to encourage the creation of national veterinary associations in any Commonwealth country where none exists; to promote the interchange of veterinarians; to encourage the creation of statutory bodies to regulate the study and practice of veterinary science in member countries where none exists.

Activities

Organisation of regional conferences and workshops; organisation of twinning projects between various member associations to encourage personal ties, the exchange of information and possible exchange of personnel; assistance in drawing up model Veterinary Acts and model Association Bylaws; organisation of a book, journal and audio-visual aids project for countries with currency difficulties; various other projects including a study of the training and role of sub-professional staff.

Director-General

J Saynor, JP

Founded

by Royal Charter in 1917 (Imperial War Graves Commission); assumed current name in 1960.

Organisation

Member governments are Australia, Britain, Canada, India, New Zealand and South Africa; they share the cost of the Commission's work in proportion to the numbers of their graves. The Commission comprises eight official members (in addition to the President), including the British Secretary of State for Defence in Britain (Chairman) and Minister for Housing and Construction, and the representatives in London of the overseas member governments, and up to nine non-official members appointed by Royal Warrant. There are ten executive staff.

Aims

To mark and maintain the graves of all members of Commonwealth forces who died in the two world wars, to build memorials to those who have no known grave, and to keep records and registers including—after the Second World War—a record of the civilian war dead.

Activities

Following the permanent marking of graves, construction of war memorials and cemeteries, the main task of the Commission is now the structural and horticultural maintenance of the sites in 140 countries; information on grave sites, etc. is provided to inquirers. Commission meetings are held every three months; technical and administrative staff training courses are organised.

Publications
