

FOOTNOTES AND COMMENTS

1 New York Times 16 02 2000.

2 Government Direct, November 1996, The Stationary Office Ltd., PO Box 276, London, SW8 5DT pp 6 - 7.

3 IBID pp 13-14.

4 IBID p.15.

5 Jack Cunningham, Minister for the Cabinet Office, Introduction to Modernising Government, March, 1999. HYPERLINK “<http://www.ccta.gov.uk/corporate/modern.htm>”

6 Interview, Andrew Jordan, Head, Central Information Technology Unit, UK Cabinet Office, London, June, 1997 and press release on Modernising Government, Cabinet Office, April, 1999.

7 Prime Minister Tony Blair, Foreword, Modernising Government, March, 1999, The Stationary Office Ltd., PO Box 276, London, SW8 5DT or HYPERLINK <http://www.ccta.gov.uk/corporate/modern.htm>
<http://www.ccta.gov.uk/corporate/modern.htm>

8 Downloaded from HYPERLINK “<http://www.number-10.gov.uk/>
<http://www.number-10.gov.uk/> 15 April, 2000.

9 Note: The following section is part of a paper written by the author entitled: Knowledge Management: An Evolving Discipline, February 2000, pp 19-22. It was prepared for, and published by, Canada Institute for Scientific and Technical Information, National Research Council Canada. And is re-published here with their permission.

10 Interview with Pat Langford, Department of Trade and Industry, London, UK, 13 April, 1999.

11 Interview with Pat Langford, Department of Trade and Industry, London, UK, 23 September, 1999.

12 E-citizen e-business e-government 14 02 2000, Consultation paper from Central IT Unit, Information Age Champions HYPERLINK “<http://www.iagchampions.gov.uk>”

13 IBID p.3 <http://www.iagchampions.gov.uk>

14 Canada-Mexico Trade Action Plan statistics, Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade, Government of Canada, 1998.

15 Fast Forward: Accelerating Canada's Leadership in the Internet Economy, Report of the Canadian E-Business Opportunities Roundtable, Boston Consulting Group (Canada), January, 2000.

16 Note: The following section is part of a paper written by the author entitled: Knowledge Management: An Evolving Discipline, February 2000, pp 23-25. It was prepared for, and published by, Canada Institute for Scientific and Technical Information, National Research Council Canada. And is re-published here with their permission.

17 Knowledge Management in the Treasury Board Secretariat and the Federal Knowledge Landscape, Dawn Nicholson-O'Brien, Executive Director, Corporate Renewal and Knowledge Management Office, April, 1999, p.1.

18 Canada Health Infoway: Paths to Better Health, Final Report of the Advisory Council on Health Infostructure, March, 1999, Executive Summary HYPERLINK "www.hc-sc.gc.ca/ohih-bis/achis/fin-rpt_e.html" Press Releases, March 16, 00, Institute On Governance (IOG), Ottawa, Canada HYPERLINK "<http://www.iog.ca>"

19 For further details on developments in the US see HYPERLINK "<http://www.epic.org>" OECD Communications Outlook 1999.

20 More recent data from International Data Corporation (IDC), Statistics Canada and the U.S. census Bureau, as reported in the Globe and Mail (Jan. 28, 2000) suggests Canada now leads the U.S. in percentage of Internet users by 40% to 32%.

21 National Partnership for Reinventing Government, A Brief History, John Kamensky, January 1999 (NPR web-site: <http://www.npr.gov>)

22 As cited in Telegeography 1999, Greg Staple, Editor, Washington, D.C., November 1998.

23 The National Information Infrastructure: Agenda for Action, Executive Summary, September 15, 1993.

24 Network Wizards Internet host counts – www.nw.com/host-count-history. Government Information Technology Services (GITS) Working Group, Accomplishments Report, June 1996.

25 Further information on the Government Services Agency's intergovernmental solutions policies and applications can be found at: <http://policyworks.gov/intergov>).

26 Digital 21 Hong Kong Special Administrative Region: Information Technology Strategy, November, 1998, Information Technology and Broadcasting Bureau, Government of Hong Kong, SAR at <http://www.info.gov.hk/itbb>

27 IBID, see preface.

28 Mr. Alan Siu of the Information Technology and Broadcast Bureau in a September 28 1999 interview.

29 See Malaysia, 1996.

30 Mahathir Mohamad, 1998.

31 Multimedia Development Corporation (MDC) [on-line], HYPERLINK “<http://www.mdc.com.my/msc.index>” accessed: October 25, 1999.

32 New Straits Times, 1999.

33 Mahathir Mohamad, 1998.

34 Multimedia Development Corporation (MDC) [on-line], HYPERLINK “<http://www.mdc.com.my/msc/frame/envi.html>” accessed October 27, 1999.

35 Global Telekom Business, 1999.

36 Moggie, 1998.

37 Steven Clift, Speech delivered to Integrating Government with New Technologies, December 13, 1999, Ottawa Canada.

38 Andrew Sahpiro, The Contril Revolution, Perseus Publications, USA 1999, p.9.

38 Ibid p.12

39 The Democracy On-line Newswire e-mail announcement list covers the topics covered in this article. Send a message to listserv@tc.umn.edu. In the body of the message, write subscribe do-wire Your Name (Place). Democracies On-line is a new initiative promoting development and sustainability of on-line civic participation and democracy efforts around the world through experience, outreach, and education. For more information, see <http://www.e-democracy.org/do>.