The development of this publication, the first regional Judicial Bench Book on violence against women and girls in the Commonwealth, was a collaborative effort of a number of people and institutions to whom the Commonwealth Secretariat is indebted. Many thanks to the visionary frontrunners who made recommendations at the Judicial Colloquium held in Botswana in September 2012 and April 2013, for the development of a regional judicial resource book on VAW.

First and foremost, we would like to express our gratitude to all who contributed their time, wisdom, expertise and experience to this project. The project and its technical work were led by Kemi Ogunsanya and Elizabeth Bakibinga-Gaswaga, Advisers in the Gender Section and the Rule of Law Division respectively. The core contributors to the formulation and completion of the Judicial Bench Book were Lady Justice Hon Sarah Ondoeyo Omolo (Rtd. High Court Judge of Kenya) and Lady Justice Hon Dr Prof Lillian Tibatemwa-Ekirikubinza (Justice of Appeal, Supreme Court of Uganda). Hon Justice Elizabeth Ibanda-Nahamya developed the paper on Child, Early and Forced Marriages.

We would like to thank the Governments of Kenya, Rwanda, Tanzania and Uganda, for approving the participation of judicial officers and key experts to the workshops. The support of the Chief Justices of the four respective countries, namely Hon Justice Bart Katureebe (Uganda), Hon Justice Mohamed Chande Othman (Tanzania), Hon Justice Sam Rugege (Rwanda) and Hon Justice Mohamed Ibrahim (Kenya) is appreciated. We thank Hon Justice Duncan Gaswaga, Hon Justice Sandra E Oxner, Allen Asimwe, Valentine Namakula and David Baxter Bakibinga, Directorate of Public Prosecutions, Uganda for contributing cases and materials and the rapporteur, Martha Bakwesegha-Osula.

Special thanks are due to Katalaina Sapolu, Jarvis Matiya, Steven Malby, Segametsi Mothibatsela, Mikhail Charles, Mark Guthrie, Shadrach Haruna, Esther Eghobamien, Dr Meena Shivdas and Amelia Kinahoi Siamomua of the Commonwealth Secretariat for their overwhelming support and invaluable contributions. We also recognise the publication and printing teams for their inputs to the production of the bench book.

Our special thanks to several persons and members of the East Africa Technical Working Group who contributed immensely to the finalisation of the Bench Book across the East Africa region, at the technical review and validation workshop in February and launch in June 2016 in Nairobi, Kenya.

We are grateful also to judicial officers, jurists and experts who participated in the workshops, using their boundless knowledge and experience in the final stages to enhance the quality of this publication.

We specifically thank judges, registrars and senior magistrates of the Courts of Judicature in East Africa, namely, Winifrida Korosso, Sophia Wambura, Susan Okalany, Aloysius Mujulizi, Henrietta Wolayo, Percy Tuhaise, Angeline Rutazana, James Aaron Makau, Martha Koome, Mumbi Ngugi, Edward M Muriithi, Margaret J Bankika, Vincent Emmy Mugabo, Boniface Wamala, Ilvin Claud Mugeta and Gadiel Elidoriki Mariki. The jurists and experts include Faith Waigwa, Pamela Janet Namusubo, Rebecca Niwagaba, Carren Nelima, Alice Sedah Njogo, Maxime Rwendeye, Fidele Rutayisire, Jacqueline Bakamurera, Julien-Gustave Kavaruganda, Ruth Ikiriza, Annmarie Mavinjina Mkelame, Harriet Nabankema, Rachel Odoi- Musoke, Maria Nakabiito, Sarah Mhamilawa, Vastina R Nsanze, Njoki Kahiga, Francis Gimara, Rajab Abdalla Rajab, Wasai Jacob Nanjakululu, Dr Shukri Mohamed, Dr Pauline Bakibinga, Caroline Wangui, and Dr Stella Muthuri.

The support of the Judges and Magistrates Association Tanzania, Law Society of Kenya, Tanganyika Law Society, Zanzibar Law Society, Uganda Law Society, Uganda Association of Women Lawyers (FIDA-U), Federation of Women Lawyers (FIDA) – Kenya, Law Reform Commission, Tanzania, Kenya Law Reform Commission, Uganda Law Reform Commission, Tanzania Women Lawyers Association, Uganda Judicial Officers Association, Agency for Cooperation and Research in Development, African Population and Health Research Centre and Commonwealth Judicial Education Institute is greatly acknowledged.

In the event we have omitted any individual or organisation that contributed to the project, we offer our sincere apologies and thanks.
